

Session 2: We Can Fix It! (March 29, 6:30 pm)

Please read selections within the following pages that speak to you.

Section 3: The Threat Multiplier p.90-92,106-107,126-128

Chapter 8: Democrats and Dismissives p.90-92

SKIP p.87-90

Why Climate Change Seems So Far Away p.90

How to Flip Our Perspective p.91

SKIP p.92-96

Chapter 9: Here and Now p.106-107

SKIP p.97-105

Why Seeing Is Believing p.106

Chapter 10: No Time to Waste (SKIP ALL)

Chapter 11: The Sickness and the Cure p.126-128

SKIP p.117-126

Climate Change is Our Bottom Line p.126

Section 4: We Can Fix It! p.131-194

Chapter 12: Why We Fear Solutions p.131-142

Introductory remarks p.131

We Don't Think We Matter p.132

We Think the Cure is Worse than the Disease p.134

Fingerprinting the Biggest Culprits p.136

The Power of Misinformation p.138

Turning Opinions Around p.139

Chapter 13: Carbon and the Common Good p.143-151

Introductory remarks p.143

The Tragedy of the Climate Commons p.144

Why We Lack Incentive to Act p.145

Why It's Not Just a People Problem p.147

Let Them (Stop) Eating Cake p.148

Chapter 14: The Climate Potluck p.152-160

Introductory remarks p.152

Planning for the Global Potluck p.152

Motivating Countries to Care p.153

How Countries Can Cap Carbon p.155

How Countries Can Price Carbon p.156

Do These Policies Work? p.158

Chapter 15: Everyone Needs Energy p.161-172

Introductory remarks p.161

Why Energy, Not Fossil Fuel, Is a Moral Necessity p.163

Cleaning Up Our Electricity p.165

Going the Extra Electric Mile p.166

Reaching for the Higher Energy Fruit p.168

Excited About the Future p.171

Chapter 16: Cleaning Up Our Act p.173-184

Introductory remarks p.173

Cracking the Tough Energy Nuts p.174

Farming the Future p.177

Putting Carbon Back p.179

Scaling Up Nature p.181

Engineering the Planet p.182

Chapter 17: Time to Speed Up p.185-194

Introductory remarks p.185

Divesting from Fossil Fuels p.186

Keeping Them in the Ground p.188

Counting the Costs of Climate Impacts p.189

Why It's Time to Move On p.190